Hey, you!

That’s right, I’m talking to you. If you’re under 30, chances are you don’t have health insurance. And you may not be aware of all the ways you could have affordable, high-quality health care coverage:

Parents’ Insurance  If your parents’ plan covers children, you can be added to it or stay on it till you are 26.

Student Health Plan  Most of these plans meet federal requirements, so you won’t pay a fine for not having insurance.

Medicaid  If, like many young people, you do not earn more than $16,242 a year, you qualify for this state-run program.

Affordable Care Act  Even as a student, if you make too much for Medicaid, you may get a good deal through HealthCare.gov – and most likely you will qualify for financial aid for these plans.

Catastrophic Plan  If you think you’re Superman, and only need insurance in case of big disasters, there is a plan for you!
